Ron Bushman Appointed Regional Vice President For Northern California

Oakbrook, IL – Veolia Transportation President and COO Mike Griffus announced that he has named Ron Bushman as Regional Vice President for Northern California.

In making the announcement, Griffus stated that Ron comes to our company with an impressive range of experience and specific knowledge of the Northern California area.

“We’re excited to have Ron as part of our team”, said Mike. “His track record includes years of experience managing transit operations, for both the public and private sectors. He has tremendous integrity, is a great manager and brings years of successful operating experience to our company.”

Bushman’s experience includes several managerial roles in the transportation industry including General Manager as well as multiple fixed route, paratransit and university transportation contracts. Prior to coming to Veolia, he worked for Laidlaw Transit Services as Area General Manager. He knows Northern California because he was Regional VP for that area and the greater Northwest before joining us. Ron also spent five years in the public sector as Transit Manager of the Logan Transit District and the Cache Valley Transit District, both in Logan, Utah. Ron has received numerous awards for superior performance, customer service and community programs. His well-rounded experience includes business development, risk management, labor negotiations and operations management.

He resides in Utah with his wife of 17 years and six children including their eight year-old twins. He attended Veolia’s regional meetings in Oak Brook this week, to meet our corporate and regional leadership team and to be briefed on our programs, operational processes and plans.

About Veolia Transportation

Veolia Transportation is the leading private provider of multi-modal passenger transportation services in North America, operating bus, rail, taxi, shuttle and paratransit systems in over 130 locations in the US and Canada. The company operates many leading US transit contracts including Las Vegas, Phoenix, Denver and San Diego.

Veolia Transportation entered the North American market in 2001 and has quickly expanded to a national presence, with over 16,000 employees and 130 contracts.

Veolia also owns SuperShuttle, America's leading airport shuttle service, moving over eight million passengers per year to and from the airport, as well as a number of taxi operations.

Veolia Transportation has built its reputation on superior performance, long-term partnerships with transit agencies, and care for passengers and employees.

Veolia Transportation is part of Veolia Transport, the world's largest private operator of public transit, including bus, BRT, rail, paratransit, shuttle, ferry and taxi services. Veolia Transport operates contracts for 5,000 transit authorities in 30 countries, and has over 100 years of operating experience. The company operates some of the most complex and sophisticated networks in the world, including Stockholm, Melbourne, Bordeaux, Rouen, and Dublin.
